International Whisk(e)y

Irish

Traditionally less peat character than Scotch Whisky, generally un-malted as well—The result is a sweeter, rounder, some would say, less aggressive Whisk(e)y.

Chinese Spirit (bai jiu)

Chines liquor , which has been made for over 5000 years. It's characterized by a double semisolid-state fermentation using fungi as microbial starter of the saccharification.This is a typical feature of liquors produced in the far east, the brewing of chinese baijie mainly uses grain except for a few that use fruit.

Scotch

Scottish whiskies are among the world's most revered spirit, there are varying styles, though all can be delectable masterworks in their own right.

Speyside Whisky

Speyside proffers the lighter, sweeter drams, body is brought with age and some of the heavily sherried, well-aged Speyside single malt are particularly full, the lighter, younger whiskies can be rather delightful with superb balance. The sweetness is often honeyed and delicate and pear is rarely used, nor are the drams particularly salty, Speyside whiskies are rarely finished in exotic wood.

Islay Whisky

Single malts from islay tend to be the most pungent and peaty of all scotch whiskies, this is particularly true to the south of the isle, further north there is not quite the peaty intensity, instead there is often plenty of fruit and refinement, there is always a good degree of balance, wherever one is on the isle
